GRANT'S MEMOIRS.

REMINISCENCES OF THE GREAT

He Describes His Meeting With General Les at Apperson and the Apple Tree Story-The Cam-paign of Vicksburg Detailed-The First Battle of the War-Other Incidents,

New York, June 8 .- General Grant's book, to be published in a few months, will contain the following reminiscences of Lee's surren-

I found General Lee had been brought into our lines and conducted to a house belonging to Mr McKear, and was there with one of his staff offiters waiting my arrival. The head of his column was occupying a hill, a portion of which was an apple orchard, across a little valley from the court Sheridan's forces were drawn up in line of battle on the crest of a hill on the south side of

Before stating what took place between General Lee and myself I will give all there is of the narrative of General Lee and the famous apple tree Wars produce many stories of fiction, of which are told until they are believed. The war of the rebellion was fruitful in the same way. The story of the apple tree is one of those fictions, with a slight foundation of facts. As I have said, there was an apple prchard on the side of the hill occupied by the confederate forces. Running diagonally up the hill was a wegon road, which at one point ran very near one of the trees, so that the wheels on that side had cut off the roots of the tree, which made a little embankment. General Babcock rerted to me that when he first met General Lee he was sitting upon this embankment, with his feet in the road and leaning against the tree. It was then that Lee was conducted into the house where I first met him. I had known General Lee in the old army, and had served with him in the Mexican war, but did not suppose, owing to the difference in our ages and rank, that he would probably remember me, while I would remember him more distinctly, because he was phief engineer on the staff of General Scott in the Mexican war. When I had left camp that morning I had not expected the result so soon, that then garb, and I believe without a sword, as I usual ly was when on horseback on the field, wearing a soldier blouse for a coat, with the shoulder straps of my rank to indicate who I was to the army. THE MEETING WITH LEE. When I went into the house I found General Lee We prected each other, and after shaking hands took our seats. What his feelings were I do not know. Being a man of much dignity and with an impenetrable face, it was impossible to say whether he felt inwardly glad that the end had finally come, or whether he felt sadly over the result and was too manly to show it. Whatever his feelings were they were entirely concealed had been quite apparent on the reception of his letter, were sad and depressed. I felt like anything rather than rejoicing at the downfall of a foe that had fought so long and gallantly, and had suffered so much for the cause which I believed to be one of the worst for which a people ever fought, and for which there was not the least pretert. I do not question, however, the sincerity of the great mass of those who were opposed to us. General Lee was dressed in full uniform, entirely new, and wearing a sword of considerable sented by the state of Virginia. At all events it was an entirely different sword from one that would ordinarily be worn in the field. In my rough traveling suit, which was the uniform of private with the straps of a general, I must have contrasted very strongly with a man so hand-somely dressed, six feet high, and of faultless form. But this was not a matter that I thought

APPROACHING THE SURRENDER.

General Lee and I soon fell into conversation about the old army times. He remarked that he remembered me very well, in the old army, and I told him, as a matter of course, I remembered him perfectly, but owing to the difference in years, there being about sixteen years difference in our ages, and our rank. I thought it very likely I had not attracted his attention sufficiently to be remembered after such a long period. Our conthe object ci our meeting. General Lee, at that time, was accompanied by one of his staff officers Colonel Marshall. I had all of my staff with me, a good portion of whom were in the room during the whole of the interview.

AN INCIDENT OF GENERAL M'COOK.

In the article, on the battle of Shiloh which I wrote for the Century Magazine, I stated that General A. Mc. D. McCook, who commanded a division of Bull's army, expressed some unwil lingness to pursue the enemy on Monday, Apri because of the condition of his troops. General Budleau, in his history, also makes the same statemen on my authority. Out of justice to General McCook and his command, I must say that they left the point twenty-two miles east of Savanuah, on the morn of the 6th. From the heavy rains of a few days previous, and the passage o the trains and artillery, the roads were necessarily deep in mud, which made marching slow. The division had not only marched through this mud the day before but it had been in the rain all night without rest. It was engaged in the battle of the second day d did as good service as its position allowed. In fact, an opportunity occurred for it to perform highest commendation from the division commanders in the army of the Tennessee. General Sherman, in both his memoirs and report, makes mention of the fact. General McCook himself onged to a family which furnished many volmnteers to the army. I refer to these circumstances with minuteness, because I did General McCook an injustice in my article in the Century, though not to the extent one would suppose from the public press. I am not willing to do any one an injustice, and if convinced that I have done one, I am always willing to make the fullest admis

AROUND VICKSBURG

The Vicksburg newspapers, which we received regularly through the courtesy of the rebel pickets, said prior to the 4th, in speaking of the "Yankee" boast that they would take dinner in Vicksburg that day, that the best receipt for cooking a rabbit was "ketch your rabbit fust." The paper at this time and for some time previous printed on the plain side of wall paper. The last number was printed on the th, and announced that we had "caught our rabbit." I have no doubt that Pemberton com menced his correspondence on the third with a iwo-fold purpose, first, to avoid an assault which he knew would be pessful, and second to pre-vent the capture take g place on the great national holiday, the anniversary of the declaration of American independence. Holding out for better terms, as he did, he defeated his aim in the latter icular. On the fourth of July, at the appointed hour, the garrison of Vicksburg mare ir works, and formed a front, stacked arms, and back in good order. Our whole army present witnessed this scene without cheer-ing and without a single offensive remark that I ever heard of. Logan's division, which had ap-of his division was soon floating over the court-THE CAMPAIGN OF VICKSBURG.

The campaign of Vicksburg was suggested and developed by circumstances. The elections of 1862 had gone against the prosecution of the war.

Voluntary enlistments had nearly closed, and the draft had been resorted to. This was resisted, and defeat or a backward movement would have made its execution would have made its decention impossible. A forward movement to a decisive victory was necessary. Accordingly I resolved to get below Vicksburg, unite with Banks against Port Hudson, make New Orleans the base, and with that base and Grand Gulf as the starting point, move our combined forces against Vicksburg. Upon reaching Grand Gulf, after running its batteries and fighting a battle, I received a letter from Banks, informing me that he could not be at Port Hudson under ten days, and then with only 15,000 men. Time was worth more than reinforcements. I therefore determined to push into the interior of the enemy's country. With a large river behind us, held above and below by the enemy, repid movements were essential to success. Jackson was captured the day after the new commander had arrived, and when the large reinforcements were dailyexpected. A rapid movement west was made, and the garrison of Vicksburg was met in five battles and badly defeated. The city was then successfully besieged. mpossible. A forward movement to a decisive

No reminiscence of war history will be read with greater interest than General Grant's account of his first meeting with Lincoln, and Lincoln's charge to him.

Although hailing from Illinois myself, the state of the president, I had never met Lincoln until called to the capitol to receive my commission as lieutenant general. I knew him, however, very well, and favorably from accounts given by the officers under me at the west, who had known him all their lives. I had also read the remarkable course of debates between Lincoln and Douglas a few years before, when they were rival candidates for the United States senate. I was then a resident of Missouri, and by no mesnas a "Lincoln man" in the countest, but I recognized his great ability. In my first interview with Lincoln alone, he stated to me that he had never professed to be military, or to know how campaigns should be conducted, and never wanted to interfere with them, but that procrastination on the pert of the commanders, and the pressure of the people at the north, and of congress which like the poor, "the had always with him." had forced him into issuing his well;known series of "executive orders." He did not know but they were all wrong, and did know that some of them were. All he wanted or had ever wanted, he said, was that some one would take the responsibility and act and call on him for all the assistance needed. I knew him, however, very well, and favorably

THE FIRST BATTLE OF THE CIVIL WAR. As soon as the enemy saw us they decamped as fast as their horses would carry them. I kept my men in rank, and forbade their entering any of the deserted houses or taking anything from them. We halted at night on the road, and pro ceeded next morning at an early hour. Harris hed been encamped in a creek bottom for the sake of being near the water. The hills on either side of the creek extended to a considerable height, possibly more than one hundred feet. As we approached the brow of the hill from which it was expected we could see Harris's camp, and possibly find his men ready formed to meet us, my heart kept getting higher and higher until it let to me as though it was in my throat. I would have given suything then to have been back in Illinois but I had not the moral courage to hait and consider what to do. I kept right on. When we reached the point from which 'the valley below was in full view, I haited. The place where Harris had been encemped a lew days before was still there, and the marks of a recent encampment were plainly visible, but the troops were gone. My heart resumed its place. It occurred to me at once that Harris had been as much afraid of me as I had been of him. This was a view of the question I had never taken before, but it was one I never forgot afterward. From that event to the close o the war I never experienced trepidation upon confronting an enemy. had been encamped in a creek bottom for the sake

CHURCHMEN AT A RACE. They Witness the Sport in Order to be Able

CHICAGO, June 8.—At the Westside driving park yesterday some advertised horse racing occurred. Several members of the Third Presbyterian church attended the races in order to observe the nature of the sports so that the that they might give testimony in proposed litigation, with a view to restraining the Sun-day races. The other westaide churches sent similar committees. After his sermon last evening Rev. Dr. Kittdridge of the Third Presbyterian church, requested the members of the committee to meet him in he church parlors, and report the result of their investigation. The committee was in session about twenty minutes, during which time about ten written statements were pre sented. It is intended to use the staten as affidavita in suit for an injunction asked what the results of the conference were, Dr. Kittridge said: "The committees were sent to the Chicago driving park, Washington boulevard and Douglas park, and the reports are all that we expected or hoped for. We cannot make them public now, as it would be poor policy to publish the testimony we ex-pect to produce in court in a day or two." "Will the matter be pushed?" "We have Mr, Swett and Mr. Gondy engaged, and in a day or two we hope to bring the matter up in court, and can then publish what we have learned."

A RESTLESS NIGHT.

The Weather Unfavorably Affecting General

Grant. NEW YORK, June 8 .- Dr. Douglas remained at the Grant residence last night, and when he left this morning he said the general had suffered through the night and was suffering this morning with rheumatic pains, which resulted from the weather conditions attending the storm. The pains prevailed throughout the body, and as well in the throat, where the added soreness was felt. Despite all this, the general had rested fairly through the night. Dr. Douglas is anxious for the time when his patient shall be removed from the city.

A New Trial Refused to Cluverius. RICHMOND, VA., June 8.—Judge Atkins to-day overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of T. J. Cluverius, convicted of the murder of Lillian Madison. The prisoner's counsel entered a motion for an arrest of judgment, and asked that the hearing be postponed until Tuesday, the 16th inst., in order to give them time to examine the record as to the precise point to bring to the attention of the court, and to prepare bills of exception.

Damaged by a Waterspout. Woodstock, Va., June 8.—A hurricane, accompanied by a waterspout, struck this place at 6:45 last night, unroofing the Methodist church and blowing down the fences and trees. The streets were flooded by rain. No such storm has been known here in the mem-ory of the oldest citizens. At least ten thous and dollars damage was done in town. Suicide of General Whipple's Son. NEW YORK, June 8.-Walter C. Whipple, son o

djutant General Whipple, of General Hancock's staff, committed suicide at his lodging house in Twenty third street this evening by shooting himself through the heart. Young Whipple had be some time, and studying very hard to the over-taxation of the brain is attributed the act. Whipple had also been a close student of the Bible, and

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

THE FLUID AROUND THE CAP-

New Appointments by the President-The Banks As-

WASHINGTON, June 8 .- During the severe thunder storm last Friday, Washington monument was struck by lightning, resulting in trifling damage to the capstone. To day a committee consisting of Professor Rowland, of Johns Hopkins' university; Professor Newcomb, Professor Mendenhall, of the signal service, and Colonel Casey examined the roof of the monument for the purpose of determining whether it is necessary to make any changes in the manner of protecting the monument from lightning. The examination resulted in the conclusion that the apperatus for carrying off electricity inside the monumont was all that could be desired. In fact, it was almost too good, the trouble being an insufficient connection with the outside. The committee will make a report in writing as to the necessary work to be done. The national and state banks are showing a disposition to assist the treasury in getting the minor silver coins into circulation, and offers are received daily from the banks to take a specified sum weekly in this currency.

SALUTES FOR LOGAN. The Washington Veteran artillery company fired two salutes to day in honor of the re-elec-tion of General Logan, the expense being paid tion of General Logan, the expense being paid from the ten cent powder fund raised by the Cincinnati Commercial Gazetto. The district commissioners having limited the number of gans to be fired to 121, permission was obtained from Governor Cameron, of Virginia, and the local authorities of Alexandria, to fire 103 rounds on the Virginia side of the Potomac. Afterwards 21 guns were fired in the grounds south of the white house. No gun could be precured in Washington, and one was loaned for the purpose by the army battery of Philadelphia, of the Pennsylvania National Guard. delphia, of the Pennsylvania National Guard.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT.

The president to-day made the following appointments: To be United States marshal, Edward M. Boykin for the district of South Carolina. To be United States attorney, John Catlett Gibson, for the eastern district of Vir-

William H. Yarborough, to be collector in-ternal revenue 4th district of North Carolina; Robert Taylor, to be pension agent at Knox-ville, Tenn., vice N. B. Gibson suspended. W. H. Yarborough, who was to-day nominated to be collector of internal revenue for the fourth North Carolina district, is a merchant of Lewisburg, N. C., and about forty-five years of age. He served about forty-five years of age. He served through the war in the confederate army, entering as a private and retiring with the rank of colonel. He is a native of North Carclins, and belongs to one of the most promi-ment families in that state. He has never had any public office. His appointment was secured by Senator Ransom.

John Cattlett Gibson, new district attorney for the eastern district of Virginia, is a brother of Representative Eustice Gibson, of West

Virginia. He was in the confederate army, and subsequently served several terms in the Virginia state legislature. He is a resident of

Culpepper,
Edward M. Boyken, appointed marshal for the district of South Carolina, is a graduate of the University of Virginia, and at one time resided at Baltimore. For many years, however, he has lived on his farm near Camden, S. C., and has served in the legislature of that state. The secretary of the treasury has been informed that Aufdemorte, the defaulting officer of the sub treasury of New Orleans, has fled to Mexico, where he is interested in some mines.

INDIAN POSTMASTERS. Since the publication of the opinion of Attorney General Garland to the effect that Indians could not legally discharge the duties of postmasters, quite a number of letter have been received at the postoffice department from Indian postmasters, witten in excellent style, and showing that the writers were men of good business abilities, tendering their resignations. Another phase of the question has been presented by the communications to the department in behalf of which men who married Indian wives and were adopted into the different tribes of the Indian territory They state that they have become member of those tribes, and assisted in councils, and wish to know if they are effected by the attorney general's decision. The legal aspect of their case is now under examination by the department.

The public printer reports that part first, volume twelve, of the "Rebellion Record" will be ready for defivery by the first of July.

Comptroller Durham has just rendered an important decision as to whether the debt due to the state of Mississippi by the government shall be paid or applied as a credit against the direct taxes certified as due from said state by the former comptroller. Comptroller Taylor certified that the direct taxes apportioned by the act of 1861 were due from the state. The greater portion of these remain unpaid, and greater portion of these remain unpaid, and he state stands charged with them on the book of the department. Under this certificate, there is now due to the state on account of commissions on net proceeds of the sales of public lands therein, an amount less than the balance of the taxes unpaid and charged as stated. Section 1766 of the revised statutes requires the accounting officers to withhold payment from any person who is in arrears to the government, and to make a set off. Two questions arsse: Ist, is the state in its corporate capacity indebted to the United States or account of direct taxes? If not, how far is the present controller bound by the certificate of Controller Taylor in applying the provis-ions of section 1766 of the revised statutes. Controller Durham holds that under the constitution direct taxes were assessed against the citizens of the state, and not againsnt the state, and hence were not an indebtedness of the state in its corperate capacity; that the certificate of the former controller is section 191 revised statutes under and the supreme court decisions binding upon his successor, and subject to re-vision only by congress or the courts. He de-cides, therefore, to withhold final action upon the matter until the attention of congress can be called to the same, which will be done in his next annual report to the secretary of the treasury. The principle involved in this case affects a good many states and a very considerable amount.

Ward in Court.

NEW YORK, June 8 .- Two more indictments were found by the grand jury to-day against Ferdinand Ward and James D. Fish, charging them with grand larceny in the first degree. Ward was arraigned in the court of oyer and terminer to-day. He pleaded not guilty to the indictment, with leave to withdraw his plea and demur.

The Bevised Edition in Need of Revision New York, June 8.—The Baptist pastors, at their meeting to-day, discussed the Old Testament revision. They objected to some of the changes. Professor Meirowitz, Hebrew scholar, said he found many passages incorrectly translated, and he believed that the revised version was still in need of revision.

THE GROWING COTTON.

The Monthly Report of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange,

NEW ORLEANS, June 8 .- The monthly report of the National cotton exchange con-*ning the cotton crop says: The season presents some striking contrasts with the one preceding, and while attended with several drawboats for the cotton planter, it may be characterized, taking the whole cotton belt, for several years. The very cool and dry spring retarded the planting from one to two weeks, but the crop was well pitched. The lands were properly worked and an exceptional stand has been secured. The insects have ravaged the crop, and the young plants have died from cold over and the young plants have died from cold over and the woung plants have died from cold over limited areas, and the plant over the entire belt up to the middle of May was of small growth, but it has had the advantage of careful attention and cultivation, which has been bestowed on it by reason of the favorable working conditions and an abundance of labor. In May warmer weather and showers brought up the condition rapidly. In some sections rains were needed to germinate the sections rains were needed to germinate the seed and to bring good stands. In other places rain was necessary to give vigor to the young plants, while there are complaints mainly from the northern section of the belt. another from the upper counties of some states of excessive rains. A careful analysis of the situation justifies the assertion that the damage from this cause, while teared in some localities, had not really been yet inflicted. The early June weather, therefore, in these ecctions may be watched with interest. Taken altogether, the May weather conditions can be regarded as very favorable, and they have brought the crop to a far higher status than existed last very at a corresponding date. than existed last year at a corresponding date. In comparing with 1884 the general features, as will be noticed in our review of the states, and by an examination of the temperature and rainfall tables, there is a better avearage for this season over the whole belt.

The contrast briefly, east of the Mississippi river the condition is tully as good or better than last year. West of it the situation is decidedly more favorable, while in the Mississippi bottoms there is a marked advantage in every respect. We present these contrasts merely for the benefit of those interested in the staple, that each may draw conclusion, as it is not the intention to give in the figures of percentage and estimate of the varying prospercentage and estimate of the Varying pros-pects of the crop at so very early a stage of its growth. The acreage has been largely in-creased, and is reported as follows: Virginia 100, Scuth Carolina 102, Florida 101, Tennes-see 102, Arkansas 104, Texas 109, North Caro-lina 102, Georgia 101, Alabama 104, Missisippi 102, Louisiana 110, Missouri, etc., 100; belt average 104: increase in area 686 001. average 104; increase in area, 686,000.

CHICAGO ELECTION FRAUDS. The Eighteenth Ward Bollot Box Stuff-

ing. CHICAGO, June 8.—Renewed interest in the election frauds case was developed to-day by the confession of Charles G. Gilmore, who was arrested for perjury on the trial of Mackin and Gallagher in the United States district court. Gilmore's perjury consisted in an at-tempt to show that the tickets found in the eighteenth ward ballot box had been printed ior to the election, while the tacts were clear that they were printed after the election, and substituted for the ballots regularly cast. Gilmore now makes affidavit that the scheme of perjury was prepared by Mackin. He also confessed to day that he, Gilmon, participated in the substitution of the bellots, and declares that the entire affair was arranged by Mackin, Gallagher and a New York "fire worker," whom he has described to the authorities. Gilmore carried bogus tickets to the county clerk's office early on Monday, November 24, and there gave the envelope to Thomas Dwyer, cashier of the county clerk's office, a person who has never hitherto been mentioned in connection with

THE LADIES ESCAPE. Big Bear's Prisoners Give Him the

FORT PITT, N. W. T., June 8 .- Mrs. Delaney and Mrs. Gowanlock, with several half breed families, were brought into camp to-day by a who overtook them traveling toward Turtle lake. They escaped from Big Bear on Monday, and were making the detour together. The ladies say they have been proected by the half-breeds all along, and have suffered no hardships except from constant travel. They look surprisingly well, considering the ordeal through which they have gone. McLean and other prisoners are still with the Indians moving toword Lorne lake. Furry, West and Fisk wounded in Wednesday's fight between Steeld and the Indians, were brought here to day. A detachment sent out under Major Hughes returned to day. It has been decided to use only mounted men to follow the enemy. The gattling guns will go along.

THE PRISONERS HEARD FROM.

June 8.—In the house of common Оттаwa, June 8.—In the house of commons to-day, Mr. Canon read a telegram from Col-onel Straubenzie, dated Fort Pitt, June 6th, via Straubenzie, dated Fort Fit, June oid, via Straubenzie station, as follows:

"Have opened a telegraph office about forty miles from here. General Middleton is after Big Bear. General Strange is near Frog lake. The following named prisoners escaped and came in yesterday: Mrs. Gowanlock, Dufresne yesterday: Mrs. Delaney, Mrs. Gowaniocz, Duiresne and Simpson Giadn, wife and one child; Mazan, wife and four children: Pritchard, wife and eight children; Alfred Smith, wife and four children; Hazel, wife and one child; Andre Dreneau; Abraham Moth's wife and six children; Gregory Dousire, Peter Blondin, Henry DaFresne, two of Simpson's stepsons, two Indians and two squaws. These prisoners are all well.

It is understood that the amalgamated understood that the amalgamated scale of prices will be paid. It was expected that the Altua iron works, of Spang, Chalfant & Co, would resume, but enough men could not be obtained and the furnaces are still cold. The strike is one week old to-day and a settlement seems further off than when the mills closed down. Eleven firms in this district and two outside of Pittsburg have signed the scale, and one mill is running partly with non-union men. The others are idle with no indications of an early

CORPUS CHRISTI CELEBRATION. Mischief.

MONTREAL, June 8 .- The Corpus Christi MONTHEAL, June S.—The Corpus Christi procession yesterday was the largest ever seen in this city, ten thousand persons taking part in the Fifty societies marched in procession. Mons. Fabre gave the benediction at St. Patrick's and Notre Dame. While the procession was passing along St. Peters' street, the salvation army, which was also parading, turned into the street to reach Mechanics hall. The crowd watching the Catholic procession savagely watching the Catholic procession savagely stacked the salvationists, bruising some of them badly. Had it not been for the priests and other persons in the Corpus Christi proression restoring order, a number of lives nust have been lost.

BEER DID IT.

HE GLADSTONE MINISTRY OVER-TURNED.

Beer Cails up a Violent Debate, which Ends by a Clean Defeat of the Government—General News from Across the Seas.

LONDON, June 8 .- The government was defeated in the house of commons this evening on the second reading or the budget, which was rejected by a vote of 263 to 252. Tremendous excitement was caused by the announcement of the result of the division, and Mr. Gladstone immediately adjourned the house. It is confidently rumored that Gladstone will visit the queen to-morrow and tender his resignation.

Mr. Childers, chancellor of the exchequer, announced that the government had decided to not refund to the tax payers the amount of increased duty on spirits paid over and above the extra shilling per gallon finally decided on, because the consumers had been charged a higher rate after the announcement of the original increase. The government would, however, Mr. Childers added, cause an inquiry to be made to ascertain if there existed sufficient reason to modify this decision.

Mr. Childers had no sooner done explaining the government's reason for not at present refunding than Sir Michael Hicks Beach, conservative member for East Gloucestershire, rose quickly and asked why it was that a liberal government which ought to be economical had to resort to extreme forms of taxation in had to resort to extreme forms of taxation in order to meet an extraordinary expenditure of £100,000,000. This question was greeted with cheers from the tory benches. Sir Michael went on and denounced the increased duty on spirits. He said the receipts from spirits were already decreasing. He thought that a small increase in the duty on tea would have been wiser and much more profitable. The government, he continued, should have raised the duty on wine, because wine was no more a necessity of life than beer or spirits. Sir Michael concluded by moving that the proposed increase in the duty on spirits and beer was inequitable in absence of a corresponding addition to the duties on wine. addition to the duties on wine.

John N. Cress, under secretary for India, spoke for the government in answer to a number of questions concerning the attacks reported to have been made on the government by Sir Peter Lumsden. Mr. Cross assured the house that Sir Peter, since his arrival in London, had disayowed any intention to attacks. London, had disavowed any intention to attack the government, and did not consider himself answerable for the incorrectly reported utterances attributed to him by journalists inclined to misrepresent him.

Mr. Childers moved the second reading of the budget, and in his supporting speech explained that of the total increase in beer and spirits duties England pays seven-ninths, Scotland one-ninth and Ireland one-ninth. Sir Charles Dilke supported the budget. He said that tea was aiready taxed enough. A further tax on wines would not be very pro-MR. GLADSTONE'S SPEECH. Sir Stafford Northcut and others having spoken, Mr. Gladstone arose to reply. He thought that the opposition were creating a precedent which they would regret when they came into power again. The previous reduction of wine duties had a beneficial effect in preventing adulteration and increasing trade many millions annually. It would be most impolition to increase the wine duty unless under the most extreme pressure. The government were compelled to raise money in view of the imcompelled to raise money in view of the impending danger to the empire, a danger which even now, he was unable to say had passed away. The opposition cavilled at the mode of raising the money without suggesting an alterative. Tea would require an additional tax of three pence per pound to produce the same amount, thus raising the duty seventy-five per cent on an inno-cent beverage. The government had to chose between alcoholic liquors and tea and sugar. They would accept the issue of the vote as one if they gain a victory, would have to bear the consequences.

THE RESULT ANNOUNCED. Mr. Gladstone's remarks were received with prolonged cheers. The division was then ta-ken as already stated. When the result was announced Lord Randolph Churchill and Mr. Parnell jumped upon their seats and enthusi-astically waved their hats, and the cheering was renewed. Thirty Parnellites voted with the majority. The minority in-cluded Sir Michael Bass, the great brewer and several Irish liberals. Although strong whips had been issued, many of the great supporter

THE SCENE OVER THE VOTE.

LONDON, June 9.—The following is another account of the scenes in the house of commons after the division: When the result of the division was announced, Mr. Gladstone, who had been learn ing forward in his seat in a cynically miling way, started, turned pale smiling way, started, turned pale and clutched his hands nervously together. The house immediately became a babel of confusion, the members yelling, stamping and waving hats, neckties and handkerchiefs, a tumultuous cheer from the galleries, and Speaker Peel vainly yelled for order. The Parnellites pointed at Gladstone

'That is the price of coercion!" "Down with buckshot Forster!"

"Remember Myles Joyce!"
Mr. Gladstone arose to move an adjournment, but stood in his place fully a minute before he could be heard,

The Cashmere Earthquake.

CALCUTTA, June 8.—Dispatches continue to be received here about the earthquake in the vale of Ceshmere. Whole villages have been destroyed and Dubgood, Janalapar and Ovan have disappeared entirely, having been completely engulfed in the awful convulsions. The fort at Gurais and the gravaries in many parts of the vale have been swallowed up. A large supply of rice and a considerable amount of money have been distributed throughout the vale of Cashmere to relieve the distress of the people. It is estimated that two hundred persons were killed.

Earl Granville Warned. London, June 8 .- The Pall Mall Gazette contains an article which is apparently in-spired by M. Lessar, of the Russian section of the Afghan boundary commission. The article admits that the settlement of matters and dispute with Russia is yet unsigned, and attributes the present delay to the hair splitting or squibbling of Earl Granville. The article, in tones more in anger than firmness, warns the earl not to carry his dilatory game too far. It might become dangerous.

It will be remembered that Danforth shot and hilled Laugsberg in Nussbaum & Co.'s wholesale dry goods store. corner of Third and Cherry treets, on the night of the 14th of April, 1884. Nobody except Danforth and Landsberg were in the store at the time. Danforth said at the time that he killed Laudsberg because the latter would not pay the former the salary agreed upon for the er's services as clerk. Danforth has been con fined in the Bibb county jail eversince the killing. In order to obtain a jury, Judge Simmous had nearly two hundred tales jurous summoused. The pannel was almost exhausted before a jury was obtained, but at the end of the morning session, the latter was complete. It consists of W. W. Henderson, W. H. Cunningham, C. T. Collier, J. H. Anderson, T. W. Bailey, S. A. C. Everett, A. Greene, T. S. Lowry, A. S. Haynes, C. E. Holmes, J. H. B. Wilder, and J. H. Neal.

The attorners for the prosecution are: Salicitor

H. B. Wilder, and J. H. Neal.

The attorneys for the prosecution are: Solicitor General J. L. Hardeman, Hon. W. A. Hawkins, of Americus, Mr. Thomas Willingham, and Colonel John C. Rutherford. For the defense, Lapier & Anderson, Bartlett & Dessau, Colonel S. H. Jemison, Hardeman & Davis, and Gustin & Hall are engaged.

Most of the witnesses in the case were sworn this afternoon, and the testimony for the state was begun, conducted by Colonel John C. Rutherford. A large crowd was in attendance all day listening to the proceedings. Danforth's appearance was calm, but his mother and sister, who sat near him, seemed to be much affected. Mr. M. Nussbaum, brother in law of Landsberg, and the latter's sisters, Mrs. Nussbaum, Mrs. I. Herman and Miss Lola Landsberg, sat directly in front of Danforth, whom they viewed with seemingly great interest.

It is understood that the defense will plead insanity, and that they will attempt to show that Danforth's insanity was not purely emotional, but that he was, subject to fits of mental aberration by inheritancee. The trial will probable consume two or three days.

A Test Case, Macon, Ga., June 8.—[Special.]—While the fire was in progress at mill No. 1, of the Bibb manufacturing company, in East Macon, last Saturday, a difference of opinion arose between Mr. W. G. Lang, superintendent of the mill, and B. Smith, second assistant engineer of the fire department, as to whether a door in the burning drying room as to whether a door in the burning drying room should be opened. Mr. Lang claimed that as the door was fire proof, it would be better to keep it closed and thus smother the fire. Smith insisted that the door should be opened, in order that the water might be thrown directly on the flames. Determined to test the question as to whether a private citizen has the right to interfere with the firemen at fires. Assistant Engineer Smith had superintendent Long summoned to appear before the recorder for interfering with a city officer while in the discharge of his duty. After hearing the testimony the recorder reserved his decision until Wednesday morning.

The case excites much interest, and the recorder's decision is anxiously awaited.

A few days ago his dead wife appeared to him in a dream and conjured him to change his habits, and suggested that he had better marry again as the first step of reformation. Mr. Routh was so deeply impressed with the dream that he became serious. He went to church frequently, and finally joined the Methodist church in this city. The next step was to secure a helpmeet, and he looked around for an object. He soon found a suitable person in Mrs. Sarah Williams, widow of eighteen years standing. An understanding was soon arrived at, and the Rev. G. W. Mathews, of the Albany Methodist church, was asked to perform the ceremony. On his way to join the couple Friday night he was apprised of the fact that Mrs. Williams's former husband is still living in Worth county. The reverend gentleman then declined to officiate. SAVANNAH, Ga., June 8.—[Special.]—Professor H. C. White, of Athens, who analyzed the water from the artesian well at Tybee, writes Captain D. G. Purse as follows:

I inclose the results of the analysis of the Tyber artesian water. You will observe that it closely resembles in character and relative propertidissolved matters the water from your artesian well in Savannah, but differs from this in the to tal contents of solid matter. The Tybee water is consequently of a rather better quality. This is true artesian water of the very best quality. It is totally free from injurious matters, mineral or organic, and is all that can be desired as an excellent drinking water. I have no hesitation in asserting my belief that you have secured an unfailing supply of excellent healthful water. I cannot tell you how greatly pleased I am at your success. It ought to revolutionize the sea coast

Three Stages of Life

Sweet love, I know that I must go;
'Tis late; the noon of night is nigh;
Time speeds away and yet I stay.
A lingering lover sweet am I—Ah! hew I hate to say goodby.

How radiant in her bridal dress!
How sweet the love light in her eyes!
To day she crowns my happiness,
And earth becomes a paradise.

And I need go from her no more, Nor dread her trate father's frown, When parting from her at the door, Nor fear his sudden coming down.

No more to leave her at the gate, And sighing wander home alone, For where she is—that's home; thank fate She's mine at last, my wife, my own.

POST-NUFTIAL.

What's that you say? ""Tis folly's heigh
To try on you that played out dodge
To come home at this time of night
Pretending I've been at the lodge.

Of course, my dear, I quite forgot
I had 'em on. Hic-there they go.
"Take off my hat?" "I'm drunk?" I'm not,
I wonder at your talking so.

"You won't put up with"—hush that child,
The peace disturbing little elf.
Oh, stop its noise; it sets me wild—
What's that?—hic—"hush the child myself?"

And this is matrimonial life—
To walk the floor like this, alack!
He is a fool who takes a wife—
Great Scott! I've stepped upon a tack!

Great Julius Casar! look at that!
Oh, who would wed for love or pelf—
My foot!—Here, take this squalling brat
And try to make it sleep yourself. Oh, "I'm a brute?" Oh yes. of course -That blasted tack! What's that -"I'm rude?"

Atlanta is a fortunate city. It has not only grown through a combination of almost perfect natural advantages, but it has been kept to the front and before the gaze of the American people by its individual citizens and their successful enterprises. We can strikingly illustrate this by a brief sketch of an achievement, which has carried its benefits and is largely welcomed in every section of the United States. We allude to the great remedy known as 10W1 85 EBADFIED'S FEMALE REGURLATOR.

We have neither the time nor space to sketch the history of this medicine from its humble be-ginnings, but simply state the fact that its pro-gress has been steady, till the demand ior it comes from suffering woman and her friends from afar

Because the remedy has established its merit, which is now universally recognized. The proof of its power is simply unassaliable. Among the hundreds of certificates attesting its healing virtue and intrinsic merit is one which alone carries conviction. It is from an M. D. and D. D. in the same person. One of the most prominent Methodist divines in Georgia is Rev. Dr. Jesse Boring. He is also a paysician, and was once a professor of our leading medical college. He certifies that he examined the recipe of Bradfield's Female Regulator, and pronounces it a skillful and scientific combination of remedial agents suited to the purpose of the medicine. Surely nothing could be more convincing than this. But it is supplemented by hundreds of certificates of cures that simply establish beyond cavil the power and virtue of this medicine. Any woman in this broad land can satisfy herself of this fact by asking for these certificates from persons of her own sex. Then there are scores of Atlanta citizens who can testify to any one their successful experience with this great woman's remedy. This being so, it is little short of crime in any one not to make trial or secure a trial by any suffering friend.

Another pleasant feature in the reality and merit of this medicine is the proprietor and compounder himself, A PHYSICIAN AND MINISTER,

DR. JOSIAH BRADFIELD. DR. JOSIAH BRADFIELD.

It is well known that numbers of patent medicines, besides their other deceits, arbitrarily attach high sounding names, as Dr. Thisandthat compound, when in reality there is no such personage. However meritorious a medicine, it is always a source of confidence in it that the maker is living; more when he is not only living, but controlling and superintending its manufacture, and still more when he is well known citizen of fine character and liked by his fellow citizens. This presents the rare combination of attractive advantages in favor of the now

Neerly all the countles throughout the state have reported the appointment of delegates to the state temperance convention, which meets in this city to-morrow. From the names which appear on the rolls, it reads like toe assembly of an o'dfashioned democratic convention. It is evident that the temperance leaven is at work in the very hearts of the people, for the delegates appointed are the chief enders in the'r respective communities of every progressive enterprise. That the true of temperance should have gained such a footbold in the state in so short a time is marvellous. The establishment of a Good Templars lodge in Atlanta by a body of which Mr. J. G. Thrower was the chief, in 1867, was the beginning of the present movement. For several years this enterprise was apparently alone in its work. The first lodge outside of the city was or-ganized in 1869 in Cartersvide. Then Columbus moved in the matter, and finally, in 1870, when the grand lodge was organized in Atlanta, Columbus furnished the first grand worthy chief templar in the person of Dr. E. J. Kirksey. He was followed by Rev. W. P. Harrison, elected at a graud lodge meeting in Americus. Here it was decided to establish the first paper devoted to temperance with Colonel C. W. Hancock as editor and proprietor. During all that time, up to the present, Mr. J. G. Thrower was the power behind the throne, furnishing money to keep the movement affoat when others were inclined to lose heart. The establishment of local lodges in all the small towns and county church centres created the sentiment in layor of The adoption of the local option idea, so happily successful in its results, was the outgrowth of fear. The temperance people despaired of ever seeing Georgia a prohibition state. The ulmost that a few hopeful individuals dared look forward to was the attainment of neighbor-hood prehibition. In this desultory manner over one half of the counties of the state were brought into line before the leaders realized that they of revolutionized public opinion. The discovery was first made by the wholesale liquor men. Their drummers would come in, week after week, with reports that such and such territory had been cut off by local option. The curtailment of the wholesale business spread alarm among those whose money was made in that way. They began to organize for the purpose of fighting the local movements. This organized effort to throttle local opinion, led these temperance agitators to appeal to their friends abroad. In this manner the liquor and temperance people found emselves hitched. What the temperance per ple new demand is the enactment of a general local option law, under the terms of which any community may move for the expulsion of the liquer interest. The convention which assembles to-morrow is called primarily to emphasize that demand. Its proceedings will be watched with great interest. On the third of July, the Madison Madisonian will appear as an eight page paper.

Thomasville Times: About ten a. m. yesterday Dave Jenkins, a well known colored man, was drowned in Trout lake. He and another colored man was washing off a span of Mr. Ainsworth's horses, and while in swimming water, lost his ba'ance and slipped from the horse. He immediately called for help, and Mr. Ed. Stevens, wao was on shore, ordered the other boy to swim his horse to Dave's rescue, but before reaching Dave, he too became frightened, and had to turn his horse oose and hold to the mane to keep his position. Before other assistance could be had. Dave sank the fifth and last time. The body was recovered by means of a grab hook, after it had been under water about an hour. Mr. Ainsworth was on the grounds, and had the body immediately conveyed to Dr. Tullis' office.

Fausding New Era: Any one that doubts that clover can be successfully grown in this section need only visit Mr. Henry Braswell's fields near town to be convinced. In company with him, we went over there the sowed the clover among his wheat in February and covered it with a harrow. He went over there the other day. The first we came to was where he sowed the clover among his wheat in February and covered it with a harrow. He has a fine stand here, which will, after the wheat is harvested, come on and make a heavy crop. The cultivation given the wheat in harrowing in the crover, made it a good deal better. The next was where the clover had been sown for a year or two. It is was certainly fine, the clover being thick and tall enough, notwithstanding the dry weather, to make a large yield of hay. Mr. Braswell says that when he sowed this piece of land in clover it was as poor as any in the county, but it was as poor as any in the coun w, without any fertilizing, it is rich

Griffin Sun: Dr. J. F. Boynton came here for the purpose of interviewing ex-Governor Boynton. The do clor devotes considerable attention to the Eudy of genealogy, and wherever he hears of a Boynton he goes to him, to see if they are not of the same family. Be finds this the case with the Griffin Boyntons. He can trace his ancestry back thirty generations. Sir Henry Boynton is now living on the same estate in England, which was occupied by his ancestor, Bartholomew Boynton, when willism the Conqueror landed in England, Being of Norman descent, Bartholomew met William with ejen arms and a pledge of loyalty. In return the Conqueror conferred on him a title and the estate which was then his own, and on which his descendants have ever since resided. There is one parcel of land that has been in cultivation 900 years and no body can tell how much longer. These Georgia farmers who are so familiar with he land killing process in our good old state, may ponder over this fact.

Is it a Pleasure to Attack Charity. It is the misfortune of every successful unlertaking, that it draws out attacks of envious persons everywhere. Thus the Louisiana State Lottery gives a million of dollars to support the noble charity hospital at New Orleans. It gives any one a chance to get $150,000 for $10, by her extraordinary grand drawing on Tues-day, June 16. It is fair, sure and honestly supervised in its entire conduct by Generals G. T. Beauregard, of Louisiana, and Jubal A. Early, of Virginia. Over $522,000 are distributed, and one-tenth of a ticket can be had for $1. All information can be had on application to M. A. The Rosadalis Remedy.

ROSADALIS is a sovereign remedy for all diseases of the blood. It has no equal for the cure of nervous disorders. Read this: I would like to bear testimony to the merits of Rosadalis, by saying that some eight years ago I was totally prostrated, and could get no relief from our family physician, but after taking one bottle of Rosadalis I became entirely restored to health. I now weigh 175 pounds, but when I first took your medicine I weighed only 130. I cheerfully recommend it to all, and especially to those afflicted with nervous debility. MRS. A. A. upon the statement he makes: In August, 1881, it was discovered that my son's wife was in the last stages of consumption. She was coughing incessantly, and times would discharge quantities of pus from her lungs, could not sleep or retain anything on her stomach, and we thought it only a que tion of time when life would be compelled to give way to the fell destroyer. After all other remedies failed, we got

Brewer's Lung Restorer

And began it in very small doses, as she was yery weak. She soon began to improve; continued the remedy and was restored to life and health, and is to-day better than she has ever been before. THE CONSTITUTION, Atlanta, Georgia, ATLANTA, JUNE 9, 1885.

INDICATIONS for the South Atlantic states at a. m.: Local rains followed by fair, cooler weather; winds shifting to northwesterly and northerly on the North Carolina coast;

THE lightning went a long way up to strike the capstone of the Washington monument. Plans are being perfected to protect the great shaft from the electric fluid,

THE advance paragraphs from Grant's coming book, printed elsewhere, will be read with interest by all. His description of his meetings with Lincoln and Lee are both top ics of peculiar interest.

What wars and rumors of wars could not do, the increase of the beer tax has done for Mr. Gladstone. The defeat of his cabinet on the Ibudget precipitates a conflict which was inevitable, and throws Great Britain in to the excitement of a general election.

Ir the suspicion as to the cause of the burning of the Virginia insane asylum is prrect, it adds a new danger to the list. The supposition is that the fire resulted from the igniting of the electric wires which ran through the building.

THE BOGUS BONDS IN NEW YORK. Returning to the consideration of this subject, the New York Graphic complains that 'newspapers in Atlanta, Savannah and other parts of Georgia have violently assailed it" for its "comments on the new issue of Georgia bonds as affected by the repudiation of a former issue." No doubt the Graphic is mistaken in this. It is certainly mistaken in supposing that it has been violently assailed by THE CONSTITUTION. We have great respect for the Graphic, and we simply took occasion to regret that it had allowed itself to be imposed on by such men as Clews. We pointed out the mistakes it made, adding some general observations on the bond matter, and at is all there was of it. Still, if the Graphic sires to pose as a martyr before its Wall street constituents. The Constitution would be the last to throw an obstacle in the way of its esteemed contemporary. The point in regard to which we were most licitous was the correction of the statement ade by the Graphic and other papers, no bt under a misapprehension, that the f Georgia, through its representatives, bhying and arranging in Albany and ew York city to secure the repeal of an order which prevents the savings banks of New York state from investing in the bonds of Georgia and other states. We desired it to be distinctly understood that the state is not party to any such effort, and that the value of Georgia securities does not depend on its failure or success. The Graphic was in a position to know, and ought to have known, before it undertook to discuss the matter. that the efforts of Clews and his coparceners to prevent the repeal of the order affecting on Georgia, and could have no effect on its credit, but was aimed at the purchasers of he new issue of Georgia bonds.

There is another fact which the Graphic should have known, and doubtless does know, namely: that the financial world does not regard the refusal of Georgia to pay the bogus bonds as repudiation. This is shown by the gratifying fact that the financial standing and credit of the state, not withstanding the vigorous efforts of Clews, with all the machinery of Wall street speculation at his back, is as good as that of any state and its bonds have always commanded a premium in the market, varying from 100

In fine, we deem it to be the duty of such a paper as the Graphic to inform itself thorghly in regard to matters which its editor oposes to discuss.

THE SILVER SITUATION.

The New York Evening Post emphasizes bat it has already said in reply to our ueries as follows:

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION is still in pursuit o rmation from the Evening Post about silver. It ints to know again, although we have answered question once, whether the stoppage of the pres age would not "further depreciate th the silver dollars already coined." that we think it would—a little, but What difference this would make to ut the silver miners, inasmuch as the

the treasury, we fail to see. It also to know "whether the banks of the countries and open their doors to them [the silve fter the coipage was suspended and the Ve answer that they would not if properly d. Banks are business and not philan institutions. Any bank manager, there took on deposit a metal which he might ed on to refund dollar for dollar in another tal of greater value, would be either a fool or nave. Banks have no duty about silver, any than about hides or wool. They are carried or the purpose of making money. Sentimental king is always bad banking. The first duty of banker is to secure his depositors and note ers and stockholders, and he could not do this he took depreciated metals of fluctuating value

Summed up, therefore, the situation in re-rd to silver is as follows: 1. The silver dollar coined by the govern-nt is worth only its value as bullion 2. It is a depreciated dollar that the banks e justified in not receiving.

Compulsory coinage should be stopped thwith, because it only adds to the bulk a cheap or depreciated currency which finally bring about a crisis by driving ne more valuable currency of gold.

The repeal of the coinage act will still eciate the silver dollars already > ording to the Post's theories, bly drive gold out of circulation of all this is that, wh coinage is stopped or continued, the depre ciated silver must cause the banks to hoard their gold and result in a depreciated silver currency, injurious alike to the business in-

THE NEW ORLEANS EXPOSITION. No doubt the president acted wisely in refusing all recognition of the exposition beyond the limit named by congress. He looked for some warrant of law and found none, and as the question is one largely of the appropriation of money, he declined to accept a responsibility that pertains to the legislative branch of the government. The absence of the government exhibit at the reopening of the exposition in November will be regretted, but the omission may be applied a month later when congress is in

But whether the government exhibit is returned or not the citizens of New Orleans and the interested railroad companies have subscribed about $300,000, and have practically determined that the exposition shall be reopened. The state commissioners are going home to urge their respective states to not only continue their exhibitions, but to enlarge and perfect them to an extent never before attempted. This will certainly give us, next winter, the best display of national resources ever made. The individual exhibitors, too, are very largely in favor of reopening the show; and all gaps will be filled, and systematic efforts instituted to make the exhibition strong where it has been weak.

The strongest effort of the new managers will, however, be directed towards securing fine exhibits from the Central and South American states. The splendid display of Mexico, and the benefits that have accrued to our sister republic from it, will be used to induce Brazil and every other state south of us to get its best ready before the opening in November. The managers say that they have every assurance that the Latin states of the western world will be represented as they have never been represented before. The enthusiasm of the new board of managers is very great, and in the light of the past season's experience, they are going to work in a systematic and business-like manner. They not only know what they want, but they now know how to get what they want. New Orleans has set her teeth to make the exposition of 1885-86 very successful, and her best citizens will work unceasingly to make the necessary arrangements. We believe the start made is good assurance of a finer and more instructive show than he one just closed.

The reopening of the exposition gives eorgia an opportunity to re-establish her reputation. Our products and hidden resources should have creditable representation. The Georgia commissioner did all he could on the money he received, but the state cannot afford to present a meager exhibit next winter, ween every other state loads its space down with articles. The vindication of Georgia really demands a reopening of the exposition.

PRIVATE ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS. The law makes it the duty of the state chool commissioner to report private elementary schools. Most of our elementary public schools in the country are kept up for lenger or shorter periods as private schools, either before the beginning or after the close of the public school term. These the state ssioner has endeavored to report. The table for 1883 reports 889 schools of this kind, the enrollment being as follows: White, 22 653: colored, 8,156: total, 30 809, The corresponding exhibit in the table for 1884, ch reports 918 schools. is as follows White enrollment, 25,206; colored, 8,552; total, 33,758. It is a singular fact that both tables contain reports from 68 counties, that being only one-half the number of counties in the state, and that each table contains reports from twelve counties not reported in the other.

The commissioner complains of the meagreness of these reports and ascribes it to the lack of legal power to compel private teachers to furnish school statistics. The fact that large numbers of private schools are never reported is abundantly proved by a table given in the body of the report. The origin of this table is as follows: It had been charged that our public schools had largely broken up private schools without substituting adequate educational agencies. To test the correctness of this statement the state commissioner in November, 1883, cailed on the county commissioners to report to him. from their personal knowledge, the number of schools kept up in their respective counties from six to ten months of the year. The table shows that schools were thus kept up in 118 counties. The number of schools thus kept up was as follows: White, 1,225; colored, 263; total, 1.488. This is an average of more than ten white schools and two colored schools to the county in each of these 118 counties.

This table makes a remarkably creditable exhibit for the negroes. By the last return of property it is shown that they own only about one fortieth part of the taxable proper ty of the state. If they had paid for keeping up private schools only in proportion to their property, they would have thus kept up only one fortieth of the 1,488 schools so kept up, or 37 schools, whereas they actually keep up in that way more than seven times this number. The commissioner recommends, as a remedy for the meagreness of private school reports, that no public school teacher shall receive the compensation due him unless he has reported both the private and public term of his school.

It strikes us that Uncle Peter Lumsden, of Great Britain, is the man to send after the mahdi.

This is a practical, matter of fact age, but no story is too wildly imaginative to find a host of believers. It is difficult to account for the prevalence of superstition in this age and generation. The newspapers tell us that thousands of people consult fortune tellers. Witches are fragged before courts and their houses are burned over their heads by furious mobs. Even in an enlightened city like St. Louis the murders and tragedles at the Southern hotel are explained by the store that the ground on which the hotel is built was cursed by a poor old Frenchwayman, who was disposenced of here lence of superstition in this age and generation on which the noter is out was dispossessed of her old Frenchwoman who was dispossessed of her home scores of years ago. This monstrous legend is believed by many people, and yet some of our Georgia snake stories are doubted and ridiculed. the work of northern pens. The belief that the negro is no longer a profitable factor in politics has embittered the northern mind, or at least the republican side of it. Many of the letters writt by northern correspondents now show up the blacks as a hopelessly thriftless race, a licentious and barbarous people. The religion of the negroes is roughly handled. Northern travellers report the sermons of the black divines as being meaningless gibberish, and the congregations are described as alternately blubbering and giggling as their emotions move them. The charge is made that the country brethren and sisters select communion day for their visits to the city churches in order enjoy copious draughts of good do wine. Southern writers not deal with the negroes in this unkind spirit. The outherner never expected to see the negro mate rially changed for the better by freedom and ducation. He never expected to see the charac teristic race inferiority of thousands of years standing suddenly removed by a legislative statute and a few dozen "schoomarms." Indulging roseate anticipations, he has not be disappointed. He knows that the Pompey of to day is very much what he was in his grandfather's time, and just about what he will be in the days of his grandchildren. The thorough knowledge of the situation makes the southern white man charitable and tolerant. This spirit manifests itself even in the courts. The sternest judge make every allowance they can for the ragged darkey who stands before them charged with stealing a shoat, or a spring chicken or with committing trespasses upon a watermelo patch. The brother in black is fortunate in falling into the hands of friends. In coming years he will find that the men who tried to use him to

The Mexican then asked th porter what he meant by saying that the lady was 'flip' and "flipper." The reply was that the lady was "fly." Further information was asked for when the sleeping car man cut it short, by saying that "the lady was too fresh," All this puzzled the Mexican not a little, but he afterwards learned that the mysterious language referred to impu

Ex-Governor Bullock in his letter printed in Ex-Governor Bullock in his letter printed in these columns yesterday, carefully avoids the facts at issue, and proceeds to discuss the morality involved. Such a discussion might be made interminable. It will be time enough to enter into this branch of the subject when the facts are disposed of and when we find an opponent calculated to give point to what we might feel disposed to say on that subject. The facts in the case will be presented in a day or two by a gentleman familiar with every detail of the matter.

In your igne of Sunday the 7th details of the case will be presented in a day or two by a gentleman familiar.

In your issue of Sunday, the 7th instant, you publish a communication from the Hon. N. J Hammond which I presume to be the presentation of facts to which you referred. I cannot hope to be able to present anything that would "give point to what you might be disposed to say." And I certainly do not wish to be considered your "opponent" in any sense. For the great work THE Constitution has done, and for its brilliant edi torial and business staff. I have only admiration nel Hammond I shall ask space for consideration. That a gentleman whose record as reporter of the supreme court and attorney general of the state has not been excelled, and ing his third term in congress, should fall into error in stating what he supposed to be "facta" in this bond matter is an additional evidence that the whole subject should be considered and determined judicially, for I am sure my genial neighbor, Colonel Hammond, who has made this remark able and creditable record in public life would not intentionally do me or this subject an injus-

I will not say of his paper "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus," but it so happens that the official record does not harmonize with the statement quoted by the attorney-general. My immediate successor in the executive office concludes an elaborate review of the financial affairs of the state in a message to the legislature as follows: a message to the representative as follows:

The foregoing statement covers every description and character of bonds that have been issued during the administration of my predecessor, and from it your knonrable body will see that the only kind of bonds issued by him that are now out star ding, and that are a claim against the state are the $3,000,000 of gold bonds issued under authority of the act of September 15, 1870, and the $1,800,000 of gold bonds issued to the Brunswick and Albany railroad company in accordance with the act of of gold bonds issued to the Brunswick and Albany railroad company in accordance with the act of October 17, 1870. The actual liability of the state, therefore, incurred during his administration, is represented by the sum of $4,800,000. It should not be forgotten that a large portiongof tais sum has been devoted to the redemption of bonds falling due in 1870 and 1871, and in years previous thereto, and to the payment of interest on them and on others still to fall due.

The debt of the state is not therefore actually increased by that amount.

The dector increased by that amount.

The contingent liability of the state incurred by the general assembly during the time that my predecessor was in office, is represented by the indorsement of the state upon bonds of railroad companies.

The railroads upon whose bonds the indosement of the state had been placed during the administration of Governor Bullock, and the amount of such indorsement as they appear from the records of this department, and from the books in the office of the secretary of state and treasurer, are as follows:

Alabama and Chattanooga...... Georgia Air Line..... South Georgia and Florida. ... 464,00

86,923,400 At the last session of the legislature the charter of the Cartersville and Van Wert road was so amended as to change the name of that road to the Cheroke railroad, and the indorsement of the state wes placed upon the bonds of the road under its new page.

Its new name.

The bonds of the Georgia Air-Line road, upon which the indorsement of the state was placed, have been cancelled by the officers of that road, and returned to this department, and are now in the treasurer's office. This indorsement amounts to $240,000, and should be deducted from the total amount above stated. The sum of $6,683,400 then remains, which represents the total amount of contingent liability of the state, now outstanding, incurred during the administration of Governor Bullock.

Bullock.

It has been ascertained from the officers of the Macon and Brunswick railroad company that $400.000 of the bonds of that company were indorsed by Governor Charles J. Jenkins, no record of which indorsement is found on the books of this department. If we add this sum to that last above stated, we have an amount of $7,083,400, which represents the whole amount of contingent liability incurred by the state since the adoption of the policy known a "state aid." The conditions upon which this aid is granted are familiar to your honorable body. As the state does not indorse the bonds of any road until a specified porton of that road has been actually completed, and then only for a sum equal to half the cost of construction, and as she has a prior lien upon the property of the road, in the event the conditions upon which her indorsement is given, are not compiled with, it is not believed that she will ever be the loser to any great extent, and this contingent liability should not by any means be put down as actual indebtedness.

The above statement covers the whole period that my predecessor was in office, and is a complete and accurate summary of his official action in the matter of which it treats.

It will be seen from the foregoing that instead It has been ascertained from the officers of the

It will be seen from the foregoing that instead of the public debt being $13,450,000 at the close of my administration, as stated by Colonel Ham mond, it was only $10,627,000, out of which a large portion of the old debt had been paid off, and 1,500,000 paid to secure the construction of the Brunswick and Albany railroad, besides the pay ments for interest on the public debt and for new public buildings, enlargements, etc., and the expenses of constitutional conventions and legisla tive sessions. But I submit that the amount of s public debt is not in itself evidence of error or of wrong. If the benefits received by the public are in excess then it becomes wise and good. The state of New York spent million upon millions at a time in her history when sh was less able to meet it than Georgia was to aid her new railraids in 1870. New York state con structed a canal to connect the great lakes with tide water. Her benefits have been ten thousandfold increase over the expense incurred. So would ours have been if the system of internal improvement had been completed. Colonel Hammond complains that the increase of our debt occurred 'during three years of our poverty and desola tion." No man will deny that those three years marked an era of prosperity in Georgia, such as she had not seen before and has not seen since Without the six hundred miles of railroad stimu lated and constructed during those years, the condition of the state to day would have been that of 'poverty and desolation" indeed. The increase in the value of property, as returned for taxation to which I referred in my former letter, occurred within the four years from 1868 to 1872, and is not to be charged with the depres-sion which followed the reaction that culminated in repudiation. But the benefits have not been confined alone to the enhancement of taxable values. The growth of commerce "directly traceable to the good effects of the new railroads" has been stupendous. Before the construction of the Macon and Brunswick and Brun swick and Albany railroads, which opened up the breadth was returned as "wild land" and its production of lumber and naval stores was limited to a small area reached by streams.

Then the amount of timber, lumber and naval stores passing through the ports of Brunswick and Savannah was nominal. Now that traffic has become so immense at both ports as to attract shipping from all parts of the world, and who doubts but that the completion Air-Line road made certain the growth of this wonderful city, and of her later roads reach into every market. Atlanta's cotton receipts in 1868 were less than fifty thousand bales, while last year they were over one hundred and fifty thousand bales, while her increase in all other lines of trade and manufacture are still more marvelous If the system of railroads for the state, authorized by the legislature of 1870, which the colonel says were "spawned upon our statute books," had been constructed, Georgia would be to-day as far ahead of her southern sister states as we are now behind New York or Pennsylvania. The reaction which resulted in repudiation prevented that splendid system of internal improvement from being in operation to-day. I make these reflections that "the old may be refreshed and the young may be informed thereby." But I must be more specific. Colonel Ham

September, 1868. Its building enhanced values from here to South Carolina. But the aid did not do it; for the offer was refused.

This aid was not refused. Without the state's indorsement the money to complete the opening sections of this road could not have been obtained. The road gratefully accepted the indersement and pushed on with their work. Its importance soon attracted the attention of men at the north who push it to completion. these men could float a bond for a larger sum per mile than the state was authorized to indorse for, they put on the new and larger mortgage and cancelled the old bonds indorsed by the state.

Colonel Hammond says that $240,000 bonds of the Bainbridge, Cuthbert and Columbus road were indorsed by the state, and that twenty miles of that road were not completed. Now, the truth is, the state's indorsement was never affixed to those bonds. It was withheld under my order, as the President Cherokee Railroad Company, late Car-tersville and Van Wert Railroad Company. That road was built, has been and still is of great benefit to that section of the state. If there be now claimants on both sets of bonds, is it not purely a question of law for indicial decision?

This recital disposes of all the "facts" presented for you by Colonel Hammond as a justification for sweeping repudiation without a judicial hearing. But he says nothing as to the bonds of the Macon and Brunswick railroad which after examination by one democratic legislature were declared good, and by a subsequent legislature declared bad. Nothing of the bonds issued to and indorsed for the Brunswick and Albany road. (Both these roads were finished and are still in operation. One of them was seized by the state, sold, and the proceeds covered into the state's treasury). Nothing of the state's bonds in the hands of H. Clews & Co. for sale and as security for advances made by them, all of which were repudiated. There must be colonel's opinion. Do "the facts make it ridicu-

What are they? Colonel Hammond says I seem "to intend that the refusal to pay the bonds was the result of passion and not of law." That, Mr. Editor, is exectly what I do mean. In these sylvan days lof peace, when we are all united to push our material interests; now when my hair is nearly all gone and the silver threads in your's mark the steps of time, the fervid language of the legislative committees printed in 1872 has a hollow sound. No one doubts but that the fever of those days has rned out and that the public mind of to repared for cool, dispassionate judgment Colonel Hammond goes beyond the presentation of your facts and gives us his opinion that the equities involved are not for judicial ascertainment. That it is a political question and has therefore been properly concluded by a political body. That the legislature in the exercise of the state's sovereignty has rightly made an end of the matter. All other states in the union who had debts they felt unable to pay have provided through mutual compromises with their creditors for extensions and fundings. Only the other day we read of the legislature of Tennessee giving authority to their "funding board" to provide for bonds recently decided in the courts to be a charge upon that state. Georgia and Mississippi are the only defaulting states who still refuse a hearing and an adjustment on their dethis matter is unjust and unwise, and will result in our great injury unless the rights of claimants shall have a judicial hearing. In my former communication I quoted to this effect from two gentlemen who have adorned the supreme bench of this state-Governor Brown and Governor Jenkins. I now offer the following conclusive summary of the matter by another gentleman whose record on the supreme court bench of our state is not excelled by any-ChiefJustice Lochrane

record on the supreme court bench of our state is not excelled by any—ChiefJustice Lochrane:

The legislature which passed these acts was recognized by the nation and by the courts of the country, and this legislature holds its place by acts passed under virtue of its authority. To question it is to question the validity of the United States, and to bring in controversy the whole system of reconstruction.

We have demonstrated that the state legislature passed the law; that the governor executed it; that the roads were built; that the indorsement was valid; that vested rights have grown up under it; that the legislature cannot pass upon the constitutionality of the acts of a former legislature and annul vested rights; that the state cannot take the benefit of the roads and refuse to pay her obligations incurred for the very purpose of building them; that the governor is no agent, but a co-ordinate brasch of the sovereign power; that bonds issued as commercial paper must be paid; that trusts sok mnly assumed, cannot be betrayed with honor; that the estimate of the cost of the road by the legislature ended the question in law, ended it so the bonholder, ended it as to the state, ended as to every requirement of law and justice, ended as to every requirement of law and justice, ended it once and forever.

That the holder of any indorsed bond can demand his rights, and to deny them is to confess dishonor of the obligation, which will recoil upon every interest, private and public, and scatter like chaff the future hopes of the state.

Like Colonel Hammond, It oo can say I have no "interest in the subject not common to all Georgians" but the cast Mester with the content of the "interest in the subject not common to all Geor-gians," but while the Great Master gives ma strength to speak, I shall not be silent when the assertion is made that the executive authority was "fraudulently" exercised by me, or that the evidences of that authority are "bogus." A proper regard for the high office I had the honor o occupy, for the great state in which all my interests have been centered and all my manhood life has been spent, and for my children who are growing up to take their places as citizens of the union resident in Georgia-forbid that I remain silent when thus assailed.

NASHVILLE AT WORK.

$25,000 ALREADY RAISED FOR A Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

* Rev. Sam Jones Pleads for the Building - $50,000 to be Collected - Atlanta as a Model - the Work, Continues is Our City - The Dollar Fund Meeting With Great Success.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 8 .- [Special.]-The Rev. Sam Jones preached the tenth anniversary sermon of the Y. M. C. A., to an audience of five thousand people in the Gospel tent last night. He made an earnest appeal to the citizens of Nashville to rally to the movement to erect a building for the asso-ciation. He took Atlanta as a model and showed the people of Nashville what those of Atlanta had

Among other things he said:

"I want to say that you have got $10 in Nash-ville where there is one dollar in Atlanta. Shall we say that we are not able to put up a $30,000 building? It's my business to prove to you that you are able to build it. If I do that, all you want is the carpenters. I was in Atlanta Wednesday and they have now reached the $75,000 necessary to erect such a building. All the contributions there were voluntary and no subscription book sent around. I was in The Constitu-Tion office when an agnostic walked in and gave $1,000. Everybody there seems interested.

The eyes of the south are on Nashville. Let her do berself justice in this enterprise. The cure for stinginess is a big dose of generosity, but the trouble is to make the feller swallow it. You have to pull his head up to a limb, and poke it down his throat out of a big black bottle; but the odds are that when you turn him loose, he will spit it at all out.

He continued his addresses for some time, working the audience to great enthusiasm.

The scenes that followed have never seen their parallel in the city. The exhortations of the evangelist, fell with magical effect upon the ears of the awakened audience, and generously unoosed the purse strings of both rich and poor. Men whose strict economy has often been observed in business circles were quick to answer to the evangelist's warm exhortations. Young men from every direction of the crowded tent responded in handsome style, and ladies cheerfully offered sums ranging from the pin money of the wealthy to the hoarded earnings of the needy. For half an hour Mr. Jones walked the platform, and at every appeal the prospects for an imposing building steadily rose. The management of the association had anticipated that they could not erect a building of ore cost than $30,000, but the generous donation of Colonel Cole and several others were so encouraging that it soon developed the fact that s much larger sum could be realized. The hundreds rolled up rapidly, and it was soon apparent effort as was anticipated for $30,000. Colonel E. W. Cole, the railroad king, advanced and said that he had seen many who were going to give, but they said the community overestims ted their wealth, and it embarrassed them. "My wealth," he continued, "is estimated at from two to ten times what it is. I will be one to give $1,000 for a $30,000 building and $2,000 for a $50,000 build that $50,000 could be raised with as little

The evangelist and Colonel Cole spoke of the great work done by Atlanta in raising contributions sufficient to construct a $75,000 association building, and urged that Nashville, with a larger population and more wealth, should toil to do herself honor in so commendable an enterprise. The appeal produced a marked effect, and contributions flowed free as water. When the total reached $25,000 the excitement grew intense.

There was one subscription of $2,000 by Colonel Cole, one of $1,500 by W. Morrow, one of $1,000 by John Thompson, and eight of $500 each. The others varied from this to one dollar. The a mount raised at the meeting was over $20,000.

The work of raising money went forward of its own weight to day, as no committees canvassed, but subscriptions amounting to $2,700 were handed in, making a total of $25,000. The ladies have taken an active interest and to-morrow a systematic and thorough canvass will be commenced by prominent ladies and gentlemen. Enthusiasm is unbounded, and the board of trust and the Young Men's Christian association direc tors meet together to morrow to formulate plans. It has been decided to erect a $50,000 building.

The work is progressing, and Nashville will certainly raise $50,000 for the Young Mea's Christian association building.

THE Y. M. C. A. FUND.

A Few Additions to the General List-The Dollar Subscriptions Moving Along Well. We have received a subse ription of $100 for the mother's fund of the Y. M. C. A., from Mrs. John T. Grant, for which a place is asked on the genera list. It is through inadvertence that it was not sent in before the lfst was closed.

The dollar subscription lists are moving on very nicely and will aggregate a handsome sum. print the following letter as a sample of those that are coming in:

Atlanta Water Works, Pumping Station June 8th, 1885.—T. C. Mason, Dear Sir: Please subscribe and pay $8, one each for self, wife and six boys, to the Young Mens' Christian association fund charge to me and I will hand you the money the charge to me and I will hand you the money she first time I come into the city. If you will pay the money for me you will greatly oblige. I want to contribute something to help so noble a cause. Would to God I was able to give 5100 each instead of $1. Please let me know if you will comply with this request, as I see by the paper of yesterday the list may close to-day. Truly yours

A $100,000 Check. Mr. Henry Knowles on yesterday exhibited a single check for $100,000 to a party of gentlemen in the Kimball house. This precious document was written on heavy brown paper, in a heavy, round hand. The figures were cut through the paper in outline, and a cross was clipped through the paper at each end of the figures. It was signed by H. B. Hyde, president of itable Life Insurance company, to the order of Mrs. Harwood, through Paul Romare, cash

The check is in payment of an insurance policy for $100,000 on the life of Mr. Harwood, whose death was announced in our columns a few days since. Mr. Harwood had paid only one premiu of $7,300. His policy then entails a net loss on the company of about $92,000. In spite of this the old Equitable comes up promptly with the cash, in less than two weeks after the death, and makes the payment in advance of any of the other companies, though many of them had small risks. Mr. Harwood had $230,000 on his life, all of which will be paid, since the Equitable has led the way. Besides this handsome sum Mrs. Harwood and her children had a clear and unincumbered fortudeof, about $200,000. Attention is called to the following card, apropps of the above:

A Card.

Mr. H. H. Knowles, Solicitor of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York, No. 6 Wall atreet, (Kimbali house) Atlanta, Ga.—My Dear Sir: I desire through you to make my acknowledgements to the Equitable Life Assurance society for the prompthess with which they paid over to me the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, that being the smouse for which the life of my late husband, Norman B.—Harwood, was insured in your society. Although the amount of insurance carried by my husband in the Equitable Life was much larger than that carried by any otfor company, the company has within fifteen days after the death of my husband paid its claim in full without discount; although under the policies the company had the right to delay payment for sixty days, or deduct the interest if paid before that time. neither of which options they took advantage of. The omcers of the Equitable Life, through Mr. White, their southern manager, and yourself have shown me so much sympathy, liberality and consideration in the settlement of these large policies, that I feel it is hardly in my power to thank or show the proper appreciation for the consideration thus shown me. The action of the Equitable in this matter illustrates the justice of the claim made, that the company is not only faint to be the friend of the pay and father.

JUDGE SPEER GETS ANGRY,

And Says Some Lively Words to Collector

of Internal Revenue Crenshaw.

Judge Speer and Collector Crenshaw had a lively little seems together a day or two ago, the facts of which have just come to light. Judge Speer has been putting the screws of the law lightly on the moonshiners for a week, and it appears that his sentences have not met the approval of the collector, who accord-ingly called on the judge and urged that the sentences of the court were not sufficiently heavy. The judge eyed the collector with considerable surprise for a moment and then

"So you think that the sentences of this court are too small?"

"I do," said the collector.
"Well," said the judge, "do you know that you are in contempt of court?"

Mr. Crenshaw then said:
"Well, the commissioner of internal revenue agrees with me.

"And did he the judge.
"He did," was the reply.
"Well," said Judge Speer, in that sarcastic tone for which he is noted among his friends, "this court knows where justice ends and oppression begins. You say to the commissioner is a part of the comes down here. and says to me what you have said that I will put him in jail for contempt of court. I know these people and I know what is oppression for them."

THE NATIONAL SPORT.

MEETING OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE LEAGUE YESTERDAY.

Remphis Will Not be Bounced—Only Two Votes Favoring it—The Games Played Fisserday—The Games Played Elsewhere—Atlanta Defeats Chattanooga—Other Games.

The home club sounded the visitors most inhospitably yesterday, winning in every instance. we predict she will hold second place in less than two weeks, clear and undisputed, and that Columbus will recover from the ill luck that seems to hang about her of late.

As to yesterday's game on the home grounds, it was interesting, but disappointing. The locals had the visitors pretty well shut out, when a remarkable play occurred. There were three men on bases for the Chattanoogas. Ryn came to the bat and tapped a high fly over the short rightentitles the batter to a home run. This of course brought in the three men on bases, making four runs on a hit that in open field would not have given the striker two bases. The rule of the grounds is a poor one. The rule of last year is much better. A short fly tipped over the near right-field fence should not give the striker a home run, because he could not make it if the fence were not there. A long fly over the lower rightfield fence should be a home run. One over the upper fence should be a two-bagger. It is likely that a chance hit at any time will spoil a perfect game and undo the work of nine well-played innings. The rule as it now stands puts luck over skill, and is not good baseball. The rule should be changed.

The Directors Meeting.

MEMPHIS SUSTAINED WITH ONLY TWO DISSENTING VOTES-OTHER WORK OF THE DIRECTORS. The directors of the Southern league met yes terday at the Kimball house at one o'clock all the clubs being represented except Macon and Nashville, which had sent their proxies to the president of the league. The meeting had been called to receive the report of the committee appointed to investigate the charges preferred by Columbus against Memphis. The committee consisted of Messrs. Sparks of Macon, Sibley of Augusta and Walter R. Brown, of Atlanta. The first two had reported in favor of expelling Memphis, Mr. Brown withholding his report until the estimony from Memphis could be received. Mr Sparks, as chairman of the committee, had telegraphed Memphis to send in her testimony, but failed to receive it by the time indicated in his dispatch, and he and Mr. Sibley made up their report without having heard from Memphis. After examining the testimony which was sent him from Memphis, Mr. Sparks stated that he did not care to change his vote, but was still in favor of expelling Memphis, and he so instructed his prexy to vote. Mr. Sibley, of Augusta, stated that after having examined the testimony sent in by Memphis, he should vote "no" on the motion to expell, especially as he had just received dispatch from his directors stating that they were strongly in favor of sustaining Memphis. Mr. Walter R. Brown, of Atlania, said that after examining the Memphis testimony and weighling it with the testimony on the other side he should vote against expelling Memphis Mr. Wayne, of Chattanooga, stated that his club had instructed him to vote no on the proposition to expel and that he should so vote. The president read a dispatch from Mr. Deaderick, of Nashville, instructing him to cast the vote of Nashville no on the proposition to expel. Mr. Cox, of Birmingham, after hearing the discussion, stated that he would vote no. The vote was then called by clubs: and resulted as follows: On the motion to expelayes, Columbus and Macon. Nays-Atlanta, Augusta, Birmingham, Nashville and Chattanooga

Mr. Smith, of Memphis, declined to vote. It requires two thirds vote to expel. A resolution was passed instructing the president to ask the clubs of the league to vote the proposition to abolish the foul bounds and also on the proposition that each club put up in cash in thirty days a forfeit of five hundred dollars dependent on its meeting its engagements.

Yesterday's Game.

The great lead which the Atlantas obtained in the first four inmings yesterday, detracted from the interest in the game. One of Chattanooga's best players, Seigle, was suffering from a lame which accounts for the costly errors he made at short. Outside of that the team was tired out after their all night ride and in no condition to play ball. The Chattanoogas are as good a team as there is in the league and to day's game will undoubtedly prove it.

The special feature of the game was Ryn's drive for a home run, over right field fence in the sixth inning, when there were three men on bases This beautiful hit fairly brought the audience to its feet and Ryn was cheered to the echo Throughout the game the crowd was thoroughly impartial in its applause and the good plays of the visitors met with due appreciation.

Nashville Defeats Memphis by a Scratch NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 8 .- [Special.]-The game to-day drew three thousand people who saw played one of the prettiest games of the season For eight junings Nashville made one run, in the first, and Memphis one in the second inning, both earned. Neither side reached home plate again until the ninth inning. The playing being almost perfect on both sides. In the ninth inning when Nashville was at bat, Marr made a base hit but would have been caught between first and second had not Svivester made an error which let him back to first. A series of errors followed in bunch, and several accompanying hits by Nash ville, enabled two more of the home team to score; and they won the game.

Crowell and Nash were the features of the game the former having only three bases made off him while he struck out five men. Crowell struck ou eight and had five bases made off him. The Came in Columbus. COLUMBUS, Ga., June 8 .- [Special.]-The rain spoiled a pretty victory for Columbus this afternoon. Birmingham put McLaughlin in the box, and the home team barred him out for eight bas hits and nine runs in the first three innings. Every man who went to the bat struck the ball Strauss and Rems and Hagar got a two bagger first and five in the third innings. In the fourth Birmingham put Phinny in the box. Cattarach pitched for Columbus and the visitors got only three hits off him, and four of them sawed the air. They failed to score a run. During the playing of the third inning it began to rain, and in the fourth it came down so hard that Umpire Mc Cue called the game. Clark and Strauss ; will be the battery for Columbus to-morrow, and Parsons aud Crossley for Birmingham. Kappell has been suspended on account of his inability to play.

The Game in Augusta,

THE BURNING OF THE VIRGINIA LUNATIC ASYLUM.

Hundred Inmates Narrowly Saved From

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., June 8 .- At 12 o'clock last night a fire broke out in the right wing of the center building of the eastern lunatic asylum here, and before it could be got under control everything was destroyed. The buildings burned comprise the original ones of the institution, erected over one hundred years ago. There were two hundred female patients in the burned building, but all of them were rescued, except one Miss Smith, of Pottsylvania county, who was burned to death. Another patient, Miss Jeffries, after being brought out of the building, wandered away and was found this morning drowned in a creek near by. All the female patients were taken to William and Mary college, where they were temporarily cared for. The other wards contained nearly 300 male patients. These wards were quickly emptied, and the unfortunates were turned loose but did not wander off, being generally tracticable. When it was found that the fire was getting beyond control, aid was telegraphed for from Richmond, and a steamer reached here from that city at about three o'clock this morning, but the fire had then done its worst. The Richmond firemen, however, went to work, and did good service. None of the male wards were burned, they being located in the buildings partially disconnected from those destroyed, and strong wind blow-ing from them. The total loss is estimated at from $120,000 to $140,000. The insurance is about $40,000. The fire is believed to have resulted from some trouble with the electric light wires, as it was first discovered where wires entered the right wing of the build-

The burnt buildings were all of brick. The flames burned steadily but not very rapidly. The excitement among the inmates was very great, particularly so among the women, as their wards were in the burning buildings. Their screams and cries were piteous; a number of them were hard to manage, and it was with great difficulty that they were kept from rushing back into the burning buildings. Four large buildings belonging to the asylum yet remain, and Dr. A. Moncure, superintendent, states that by crowding, the patients can be accommodated in them until the additional quarters are provided. The records of the institution were gotten out safely. Much of the furniture was also saved. The total loss will doubtless reach $150,000, upon which there is an insurance in local companies of only $30,000. Miss Smith, who was at first reported burned to death, was found alive to-day near the asylum, so there is only one life lost—that of a patient who wandered away and was drowned in the cr wandered away and was drowned in the creek. This is a most remarkable fact, when it is considered that there were nearly five hundred patients to look after, half of whom were in the burned building.

FIRE IN SUFFOLK.

Petressurg, Va., June 8.—At a late hour last night one-half of the town of Suffolk, on the Norfolk and Western Railroad, was destroyed by fire The flames were stroyed by fire. The flames were not got under control until this morning. The loss will be heavy.

Later estimates place the total loss at $550,-000; insurance $280,000. Suffolk is a thriving little town of about 5,000 inhabitants, located on the Norfolk and Western road, sixty miles from here. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Produce.

By telegraph to The Constitution. CHICAGO, June 8 - The tone of the wheat market was strong in the main to-day, and despite a scason of weakness during the middle of the session, a reaction followed which carried prices up ic from the closing Saturday, and the market closed for the day about 360 higher than Saturday. There were more outside buying orders, but the inclination of a great majority of traders was to await the publication of the visible supply report, and considerable interest is also manifest in the coming estimates by the government bureau con-cerning the probable winter wheat yield. The report of the state agricultural bureau of Missouri placing the probable yield this year at 9 million of bushels, against 27 millions last year had its ffect on the market, and some curiosity has been excited as to whether the government estimates will be as low as those reported by the various state bureaus, which have thus far been discour aging in tone. The market to-day opened %@%c higher, owing to cold and unseasonable weather, sold off %c in anticipation of a considerable increase in the visible supply, but free buying carried the market up again, then sold off %c again, and advanced %c higher than Saturday.

The feeling in corn was strong, mainly on ac-1/2c higher, sold off 1/3c but rallied 1/3c and finally closed %c higher than Saturday.

The oats market ruled dull early, but developed trong activity when prices were sent up to a point

Mr. E. T. Shubrick, of Washington, to be Assisti Keeps of the Pentiantiary - Who the New Ap-pointers Are-Captain [Nelms Preparing to Take Charge of the Marshal's Office,

Yesterday morning Captian John W. Nelms, who had for nearly nine years been the principal keeper of the Georgia penitentiary, tendered to Governor McDaniel his resignation of that office on account of his recent appointment to be United States marshal of Georgia. Governor McDaniel accepted Captain Nelms's resignation and appointed as his successor Colonel John R. Towers, of Rome.

Three years ago last October Colonel Towers was appointed assistant keeper of the penitentiary by Governor Colquitt, and has served in that capacity ever since. He has been distinguised for the faithful and efficient discharge of the various and delicate duties of position. His appointment as successor to Captain Nelms was very generally expected and when it was announ ced created little surprise.

Colonel Towers is a native of South Carolina. He moved to Georgia in 1848, and resided for four years at Cartersville. In 1852 he removed to Rome, his present home. When the war began he entered the service as captain of the Miller Guards, a company named in honor of Dr. H. V. Miller. now of this city. Early in 1863 Captain Towers was premoted to the colonency of the gallant 8th Georgia regiment which he surrendered with Lee's army. He was in the service from the first Manassas to Appomatox and was a model soldier. In 1866 he was elected sheriff of Floyd county, and in 1872 was sent to the legislature as one of the representatives of that county. At the time of his appointment as assistant keeper of the peniteatiary, Colonel Towers was merchandising in Rome. The new principal keeper is about 58 years old. He is a man of fine personal appearance, hearty and well preserved, with a commanding presence and affable manners. He will continue to make Rome his home for the present.

THE ASSISTANT KEEPER. Colonel Towers is a native of South Caroli-

Shubrick is about thirty-five years old and is regarded as a man of rare promise.

Mr. Harry Hill's name had been presented for the principal keeper's place by his friends, and went before the governor backed by perhaps the strongest indorsements so young a man ever presented to the governor. They were pressing his claims in person when Mr. Hill learning that the governor was contemplating the promotion of Colonel Towers, promptly withdrew his name, stating to the governor that he appreciated his life-long triendship and would not consent to embarrass him. The appointment of Colonel Towers was made out at once and the matter closed. Mr. Hill's course was manly and modest, and has Hill's course was manly and modest, and has tied his friend all the closer to him.

THE NEW MARSHAL.

Captain Nelms is preparing to take charge of the marshal's office, which will pass into his hands on the first of July. Since the announcement of his appointment he has had numerous applications for appointments in the marshal's office, but as yet nothing is known as to his intentions in this direction. The new marshal has been warmly congratulated by friends in the city and by telegrams from all parts of the state. He wears his honors with remarkable modesty.

THE FOUNG MEN'S LIBRARY, What the Directors Did at Their Meeting Yesterday.

There was an unusually full attendance at the meeting of the directors of the young men's library yesterday afternoon, thirteen of men's library yesterday anternoon, and the the board being present. President Walker presided. Great interest was manifested by each of those present, and if the enthusiasm evinced at this meeting is kept up thusiasm evinced at this meeting is kept up during the year, the library will score one of the most successful years of its existance. President Walker is particularly interested in the work and promises to make his administration a notable one in the history of the organization. In this he will receive the hearty coperation of the whole board.

It was decided by the board that the library should give its annual excursion during the present month, and the whole matter was placed in the hands of a committee which will make all arrangements. It is probable that New Holland springs will place selected, and from what was said at the meeting yesterday the excursion will be a grand affair. Rates will be reasonable full day will be allowed at the springs There will be dancing and refreshments, and the occasion promises to be a most enjoyable one. These Library excursions have always been patronized by very large numbers of our citizens, and it is probable that the ore of this year will carry even a larger crowd than have any of those for several years past.

The directors are awake to the work before them, and in their efforts to help the librar should receive the hearty support of the who Atlantian should delight to see prosper, an also lend a helping hand as an encourage

TWO RICH OAR DRIVERS.

Young Men Who Are Worth Big Mone Quietly Driving Street Cars. is generally understood that the map pays five cents for a ride on a street ca with it the privilege of swearing at the buys with it the privilege of swearing at the driver, and the driver who works fifteen hours a day for a dollar and a quarter has to take also all the heat, cold and cussin' that comes in his way. There is very little of what the world calls romance in the life of a street car driver, and yet this rule is not without exception. The public will have to take the word of The Constitution for it that this is a true story for no names will he given in the novelette shout no names will be given in the novelette about to be related, although the characters are live people and live in Atlanta. About afty miles m Atlanta there lived a plain but substan tial farmer with four children and an estate worth a hundred and fifty thousand dollars. He had two sons who were anxious to see something of the world, and they came to Atlanta about a year ago. They had been educated to understand that idleness was fool-ish and wicked and the two boys set about to see if they could not manage to pay their expenses in some sort of work. They secured positions as street car drivers and have faithpositions as street car drivers and have faithfully served the company for which they were working, so faithfully that they were paid an extra amount for their services. A few days ago the father of these boys died, leaving the large estate. There are six plantations, well equipped and a song sum in bank, besides other property. The two boys together will soon receive as their portion of the estate seventy five thousand dollars. The strangest part of the story is that The strangest part of the story is that ye say they will continue to drive street cars for about a year. Then they will enter business. The Constitution vouches for the truth of the story, and only adds that those impation, recall the story. impatient people who so readily awear at the street car drivers should be careful; you might be impolite to one of those rich boys and he might remember it against you.

The Closing Exercises.

The closing exercises of the Atlanta Female initute will occur to night at DeGive's opera house. The enterts ssor Barili's concert will be especially enjoyable.

I guess you had better take the matter up now, put your detective on it and find out who shot the negro."

The other commissioners concurred with Commissioner English. The killing was discussed thoroughly and to-day Chief Connolly cussed thoroughly and to-day Chief Connolly will put a detective on the case.

The meeting was attended by Commissioner Stephens, presiding, and Commissioners English, Jones and Fox.

The journals of the last regular and called sessions of the board were read by Chief Connolly and approved by the board.

The chief read the resignation of J. E. Daniel, a supernumary member of the force. "Is there not charges against that man?" asked Commissioner English.

"Yes, sir," answered the chief.
"Then we can't accept that resignation,

"Yes, sir," answered the chief.

"Then we can't accept that resignation, can we?" remarked Commissioner Stephens.

"No, but I move we drop Daniel's name from the roll," said Commissioner English.

The motion prevailed, and the supernumerary's name was erased from the police roll.

Charges against Patrolman Abbott were read. The patrolman announced himself

Charges against Patrolman Abbott were read. The patrolman announced himself ready for trial. The complainant was E. F. McMansman, and the charges were sworn to. They were three ply. The first charge read:

I berewith prefer the following charges against John Abbott, a policeman of the city of Atlanta:

1. I charge that he committed the offense of perjury on the 28th day of April, 1885, by swearing falsely before the honorable recorder in the case of the city vs. E. F. McMansman.

"I don't think we have any jurisdiction over

"I don't think we have any jurisdiction over that charge," said Commissioner English.
"We cen't do anything with him. That is a matter for the grand jury and not for us. If the complainant wants he can swear out a warrant and have him tried before a justice of the peace."

"I agree with Commissioner English," said

Commissioner Jones.

"And I, too," said Commissioner Fox.

"So do I," said Commissioner Stephens.

This left the two remaining clauses to b disposed of by the board. They read:

2. I also charge the said Abbott with falsely and maliciously arresting and incarcerating the said McManaman, requising to accept from him good and sufficient bond for his appearance before the recorder, which bond and security was tendered the said Abbott.

3. I also charge the said Abbott with other conduct unbecoming a gentleman and an officer of A score of witnesses were introduced. The A score of witnesses were introduced. The complainant attempted to establish the fact that Patrolman Abbott arrested him without provocation on the 27th day of April, and that he then declined to permit the complainant to give bond. Mrs. McManaman testified that her husband was talking to the cook, but she could not tell what had been said between them. The cook said that McManaman had sworn, but that he was not talking loud enough to create a disturbance. The complainant experienced great difficulty in his line of evidence, the board

"To what do you refer?" asked the reporter.
"Simply this," was the reply, "every day when the output of the recorder's court is started off to the rock pile I see the men are handcuffed. I have even seen white boys handcuffed to negroes. I believe that every good citizen of Atlanta will agree with me that such a thing as handcuffing a white man to a negro and publicly parading them through the streets is not the proper thing to do. It would be allowable if a man were a murderer or a burglar, but it is too hard on a man who has simply been on a plain drunk and cannot on a plain drunk and cannot pay his fine. Such a humiliation would crush a boys spirit and maybe change the whole course of his life. It ought not to be done. It is against the policy of the law which seeks or should seek to preserve and not to destroy the citizens' self-respect."

THE PUNISHMENT OF THE SOULS

Dr. Munhall's Sermon on Hell—He Says it is Best to Blick to the Plain Test of the Bible, Which Tells of Fire and Brimstone Which Burn Forever and Forever.

The second week of the services at the great tabernacle has begun under circumstances which indicate that great good has been accomplished. The Bible reading yesterday morning at 10 o'clock was largely attended in spite of the threatened storm. These meetings are held every morning at 10 o'clock and many attend who cannot avail themselves of the privileges of the night services.

of the privileges of the night services.

Last night it was sprinkling rain and the sky was heavily overcast when the hour for services arrived. Still fifteen hundred people met in the tabernacle to spend an hour in worship. After some excellent singing prayer was offered by Mr. J. C. Courtney. After another song and silent prayer Dr. Munhall said that he would take as his starting point the 16th verse of the 3rd chapter of John: "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son that whose believeth on him shall not perish but have everlasting life." He debegotten son that whose believeth on him shall not perish but have everlasting life." He desired to call especial attention to the word perish. It is said by some people that he must be a cruel God who punishes men forever and forever. The text is a complete answer to that sort of argument. If you see your child approaching a precipice your first impulse is to warn him of his danger. That is what God does here. He warns us of the fate that will befall us if we continue to sin and shows that none need perish. All we have to do to be befall us if we continue to sin and shows that none need perish. All we have to do to be saved is to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ.

A great many people say they don't believe in hell because they don't want to believe in it. There is not a keeper of a barroom or a brothel in this town to-night that will admit there is a place of eternal punishment. Not a man or woman in Atlanta who is steeped in sin will confess to a belief in hell. They try to force themselves to the conclusion that there is no such place, and if it could be demonstrated to-night that there is no hell there there is no such place, and if it could be demonstrated to-night that there is no hell there would be a great jubilee in every den of sin. On this question we cannot argue ethically. We know nothing of it from the standpoint of the world nor can we adduce any evidence. We cannot argue scientifically. Science knows nothing of it. Men say miracles are contrary to science. We have no right to say that they are against the law of nature. We don't know all God's laws. I stood the other day and talked to a friend through a telephone when he was eighty miles away. That would when he was eighty miles away. That would have been a miracle twenty years ago. When we talk of hell or anything else we must not strive to reconcile the Bible with science. If strive to reconcile the Bible with science. If there is any twisting to be done let science give way. Let God be believed though every man be a liar. Up in Marsachusetts a few years ago Moody and Sankey were carrying on a series of meetings. A prominent universalist soon after Moody preached a powerful sermon on hell, said he wished he could break Moody's neck. Why do these people who don't believe in hell get so angry when anybody preaches about it? They are like the old man who said he knew there was no hell, but he would give his yoke of exen if he was just sure of it. A fashionable woman in Indiana, with her daughter, just blooming into womanhood, was daughter, just blooming into womanhood, was at a stylish resort. The daughter fell sick and was very low. She dreaded to die and spoke of her fear of hell. Her mother told her that hell was only a bugbear which the preachers fixed up to scare people. In a few hours the girl sank to the verge of death, when suddenly raising up in her bod, her eyes glaring wildly and pointing her finger in front of her, exclaimed, "Oh! mother, THERE IS A HELL, for I see it!" She fell back dead, and her mother's hair turned white in two mother's hair turned white in two days, from her awful agony.

There is some inquiry as to the effect of the new revision of the Bible on the belief n hell.
It makes no difference if they change hell into "sheol" in the Old Testament and into "hades" in the New Testament. There are many clear declarations in both Testaments which we must utterly disregard if we believe there is no hell. The same world that is translated into everlasting when speaking of the punishment of the wicked is translated everlasting when applied to the heaven of the blessed. So if we abolish hell or make it less than an everlasting hell, we must al heaven and God himself. Dr. Munhall heaven and God himself. Dr. Munhall here read a great many extracts from the Old and the New Testament,s all referring to the eternal punishment of the wicked. We know that there is one man in hell, for we are told that Dives, the rich man who scorned Lazarus, lifted up his over man who scorned Lazarus, lifted up his eyes in hell.

What sort of place is it? Is there fire and brimstone there? I believe there is, because the Bible tells me so. This is God's own word, and God tells the truth, though it make all men liars. In interpreting the Bible it is a good plan to take as literal all language that we are not positively certain is used in a figurative sense. When it is said we must eat figurative sense. When it is said we must eat the body and drink the blood of Christ, of course we know the language is figurative. But when we are told that there is fire and brimstone in hell we had better take it as a fact. How does it help us to construe the language figuratively? If it is figurative it is so much the worse, for figurative language is used only when plain language is too weak to convey the meaning. If it is not fire and brimstone, it is something a great deal worse.

WHO WILL GO TO HELL?

The Bible tells us plainly who will go, and the text indicates beyond all dcubt that all who do not believe on the all doubt that all who do not believe on the Lord Jesus Christ will go to hell. Hypocritss and liars go there. The house of the scarlet woman is the way to hell, and young man it is as much the way to hell for you who go there as it is for her who lives there. All have not their names written the Lamb's book of life go to hell. Is your who the will go to hell. Is your name there? We are all hurrying to eternity and before the stroke of midnight your heart may cease to beat and your soul stand before the bar of God. May God save us all from the awful fate which is reserved for those who will not escape the wrath to come.

At the conclusion of his discourse Dr.
Munhall asked that all who, whether Christians or not, wanted to flee from this wrath should rise, while all who are indifferent to this momentous question should sit still.

Almost the entire congregation rose.

Then the doctor said that all who did not feel that they were saved and desired prayer for their souls should hold up their right hands. Hundreds of hands went up all over While the choir and congregation sang those who had asked for prayer were asked to go into the inquiry room, where the pastors and other friends would meet them and converse on the subjects on which they were anxious.

The congregation was dismissed soon afterwards, but many persons remained in the inquiry rooms for a considerable length of time.

They Will All Pay.

Mr. F. B. Shepard, of the United States life insurance company, was asked by a Constitution reporter yesterday if all the insurance companies would pay their losses on account of the death of N. B. Harwood, of Florida, who died a few weeks ago with $225,000 of insurance on his life.

Mr. Shepard replied:
"I can speak for all the companies and say "I can speak for all the companies and say that the losses will all be paid without a contest. They have all signified their willingness te do so as seen as the proofs of the death can be submitted. That has not been done yet, because the home of Mr. Harwood was some distance from the railroad, and to make the proof and file it requires considerable time. There is no doubt that the widow will very soon be in possession of the entire amount for which her husband's life was insured, namely, $225,000."

Mr. Shepard's company had $25,000 on Mr. Harwood's life.

A COAL POOL

Coal Pool That Makes a Very Strange Sort of a Discrimination Against Atlanta. Some days ago a pool of Atlanta manufacturers was made up with a view to buying their coal at reduced rates. An agent was se-lected and sent on to the mines in Tennessee, and on arriving there found the coal men were ahead of Atlanta in the matter of forming pools and that a rate had already been fixed on coal for Atlanta below which the companies refused to go. The Jelico and Coal Creek mines, constituting about all there is of coal mines in East Tennessee, have fixed the price at eighty-five cents per ton for steam coal which makes the coal cost $2.25 per ton delivered in Atlanta. Domestic coal costs the dealers, laid down in Atlanta, about $3 per ton.

It is stated on good authority that an offer It is stated on good authority that an offer was made to sell to concerns just outside of the city at a two dollar rate, thus putting the city at a higher rate than the suburban factories are required to pay. This was regarded as a very strange sort of a discrimination. The coal pool of the Atlanta manutacturers found it impossible to get a lower rate for the factories in the city and the scheme to bunch the

according to the following Resolutions, adopted at the last meeting of the Board of Directors.

Sale conducted by Geo.

Resolved, That the lots in Blocks A, B, F, J, be offered for sale, this Company agreeing with the purchasers of the same that the Company will pave the Park Streets around the said Blocks, and also pay the assessment of the city for paving West Peachtree Street in front of said Blocks. That this Company will also guarantee to purchasers that the Company will, at their own expense, lay first-class sidewalks, such as may hereafter be determined upon as the uniform sidewalk of the Park.

That they will connect each lot with a system of surface drainage, also with the Park system of sewers, and guarantee that such improvement shall be completed for each Lot on or before the time a residence is completed thereon.

Resolved, That the Building Line upon said

Lots be, and the same is hereby fixed at thirty-five feet or more back from the fence line on streets running north and south, and five feet or more from fence line on streets running east and west,

THE GREAT ANNISTON

One of the Finest, Most Complete in all its Appointments, The Most Homelike, the Best in the World, Is Open to The Public.

Is Open to The Public.

This Inn has been built in one to the healthlest and most charming locations in the south, commanding the most beautiful scenery, the purest air, the healthlest water and the most delightful climate in the world; built one thousand feet above the gulf on an elevation on which the shady Mountain valley centres from every point, giving it the coolest summer breezes, making it one of the most delightful summer places on the continent. This Inn supplies a long felt want to the people of the south, within a few hours' travel of New Orleans, Mobile, Vicksburg, Montgomery, Selma, Eufaula, Columbus, Macon and Atlanta, Rome, Chattaneoga and Knoxville. This Inn should commend itself to the commercial traveller, the business man, the overworked, the nervous, weary and broken down invalid as a place of comfort and rest, where the system will be built up, the nerves soothed and quited, within easy distance of their homes to which they can, in emergency, quickly return; avoiding heat, dust, fatigue and expense of summer travel to the north and west.

The table is supplied with everything the markets afford, the cooking and service is the very best. The rooms are large, bright and elegantly furnished and ventilated, while every modern comfort and convenience has been provided for guests.

Nowhere else has so much been done to provide for the comfort of guests. Summer mileage rates, stop over and palace car tickets, etc., on sale in all southern cities. Rates from $50 00 topic@per month. For rooms apply in advance to
